"Lady, when you lose your power to laugh, you lose your power to think straight."

"Inherit the Wind is a play that is still mesmerizing and fascinating in its depiction of an unorthodox and factual trial and Theatre Artists Studio's production proves a rich and rewarding theatrical experience."

— Gil Benbrook, Talkin' Broadway

"Fleck plays the generally affable but sardonic and shrewd lawyer like a raging bull, at times mocking the court proceedings and at times storming into contemptuous ire at the public charade of virtue. Fleck's performance is as high octane and riveting as it gets."

"Koelbel delivers the opposite effect — portraying Brady as a man now past his prime, still celebrated by the Bible Belt masses, and holding fast to his faith and the certainty of his beliefs." — Herbert Paine, Broadway World.
